The fee for this service is $50 (Z) per hour, minimum charge of ½ hour. You will be quoted on this service and will be required to submit written approval of the charges.

Factory will be held harmless from all claims and cost arising from these issues.

Right to Promote: Trademarked, licensed, and copyrighted logos contained in this catalog are not for sale. They are for the illustration of printing capabilities only and do not represent endorsement from their respective owners. By placing an order, distributor understands that overruns may be used for digital or print media illustrating factory's printing capabilities.

Printing Characteristics

Screen Printing: Is the printing process for smaller quantities and the highest quality image. Screened images are very sharp, crisp, and deliver good ink opacity. This process also gives the ability to overprint multiple colors to solve registration issues in some art. Multiple color logos are printed and re-registered one color at a time. The registration can vary approximately 1/8". Multiple color logos are limited to one side on cups.

Pad Printing: Is a printing method which uses a silicon pad to pick up ink from a plate and transfer the ink directly onto the item being printed. The ink transfer is thin and the opacity is lesser than screen print. It is not recommended to print on dark substrates without first putting a white base down. This would add an additional color charge to the cost of the item. Images with fine detail and halftones are best suited for this print method. On most items we are limited to 5 spot colors. Registration can vary approximately 1/8".

Traditional 4-Color Process: Is a printing method that gives the ability to reproduce photographs and special effects in artwork. The process allows for less than full saturation of the primary colors. This is achieved by tiny dots (halftones) of each primary color printed in a pattern small enough that it is perceived as a solid color. With this, a full continuous range of colors can be produced. Colors created by 4-color process printing are not solid colors, but a series of dots. For example, this is noticeable in the photographs reproduced in your local newspaper. Unlimited colors and color choices can be achieved with this print process. Special effects, such as drop shadows, glows, and gradients, can also be replicated. Colors are not matched to Pantone® colors, therefore if you attempt to replicate spot color artwork with 4-color process you will not receive the same results. The gradients and tints only fade to 20%, which can lead to loss of sharpness of photo or illustration quality. 4-color process can utilize either vector based or pixel based versions of your artwork, as long as the image has adequate resolution. It is recommended that digital files are no lower than 300 DPI, and cannot be images pulled from the Internet.

Digital Printing: Is an ink jet process that uses CMYK, otherwise known as 4-color process (4-CP). It is great for smaller quantities, photo replication, and replication of special effects such as shadows, highlights, and dramatic contrasts. This process can hold great detail, however is not great for Pantone® color matching. All PMS/spot color logos are converted to CMYK. Most Pantone® colors will appear different when converted to CMYK. This is not considered a defect. This conversion can be referenced with a Pantone® Color Bridge book. When choosing this print method, if you have other items ordered that will be printed via the American Traditions or American Hi-Speed print method, they will not look similar. This also is not considered a defect. American Digital printed items may be run on different machines. This can & will yield color variation throughout the product proof, initial order, reorder, or final product. This is not considered a defect.

Offset Printing: Is a method of printing in which all colors are laid in one pass, achieving tight registration. This makes offset printing an economical way of ordering larger quantities. Registration can vary up to 1/16". Quality of offset printing is sometimes less than screen print due to the high printing speeds, resulting in slurring at the top and blurring towards the bottom of the imprint area. Ink coverage is thinner than screen printing. This results in an imprint which may look transparent, especially on clear items. Dot gain in halftone is often up to 20%. Butt registration is allowed, however trapping is not. Do not expect the same clarity and opacity of print as screen printing. Maximum number of imprint colors varies between products. Specifications can be found under individual item pages in the catalog.

Emboss & Deboss Printing: Is a printing method which uses heat and pressure to create a raised or recessed image into the product. This printing method is best suited for bold imprints without fine detail, halftones, or reversed images. Both imprint methods are available on all napkins and deboss is available on coasters. Please be aware the image is not as crisp on the Almost Linen™ napkins due to the thickness of the product.

Hot Stamp Printing: Is a printing method which uses heat and pressure to transfer foil to the item being imprinted. Due to the softness of the napkins, coasters, and wraps a certain amount of bleeding and fill in will occur on fine detail and reverse images. Logos with fine detail and reverse images are recommended to be ink printed. Please note, since foil is stamped on to the products, large solid areas may flake during use. Halftone images are not able to be hot stamped.

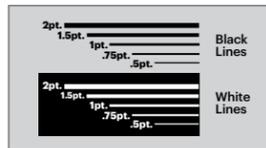

Printing Disclaimers

Maximum Imprint: Imprint area specifications can be found on our website under individual items. We recommend staying 20% under this area. Unless specified at the time of order, we will enlarge or reduce your image to fit within these areas. Artwork is enlarged and reduced proportionally by both width and height. Therefore, if you request maximum imprint area, only one of the dimensions may be maximized.

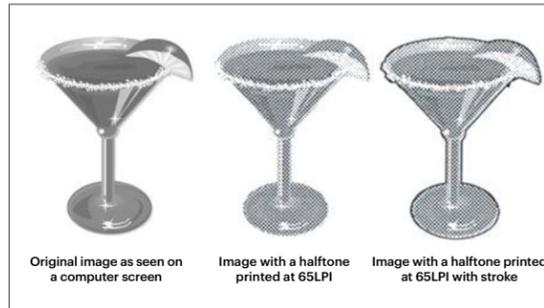

Wrap Imprints: There will be a gap of approximately 3/4" on screen printed cups and approximately 1/2" on offset and digital printed cups. Screen print wrap imprints are limited to one color. Offset and Digital wrap imprints are offered as multiple color.

Thin Lines: American Accents recommends using 1pt line or thicker for thin lines. Reversed lines require 2pt line or thicker (see graphic example). If recommendations are not followed, we cannot be held responsible for the outcome.

Small Text: American Accents recommends using 8pt fonts or larger for basic text. Script and reversed out fonts should be 10pt or larger (see graphic example).

Halftones & Screen Tints: Halftones will not appear as smooth when printed as viewed on the computer screen or printout, unless the output device is set to print tints at 55, 65, 85, 90, 90 LPI. (See graphic example). Tints below 20% at 65 LPI cannot be achieved and tints over 80% at 65 LPI will appear solid. Due to this coarseness of the halftones, we recommend images be outlined with a solid outline. (See graphic example). Purple = screen print napkins / Red = screen print cups / Green = offset print / Blue = pad print / Yellow gold = process print

Pantone® Matching System: Otherwise known as PMS is a system shared worldwide by the printing industry. PMS is a system that standardizes the definition of color whereby printers in separate locations can be assured of the color outcome. The use of the term PMS or PMS # in this catalog refers to Pantone® Matching System and its intellectual property.

Ink Color Match: American Accents offers free PMS matching. We take great pride in our ability to match PMS colors, however color match is only guaranteed +/- one shade on white / clear items. We cannot guarantee PMS match on colored items. If a purchase order says to use a PMS # and the color described does not match the number given, we are not responsible. We do not check to see if the PMS # provided is the color stated. Due to the nature of uncoated products, they will not exhibit the "sheen" of a coated ink color, we will use Pantone® solid uncoated colors when printing on uncoated products.

Ink Odor: Products are printed with inks that must evaporate to dry. Vapors may be trapped in the plastic packaging before they have completely dissipated. The inks are dry, but there may be a residual odor in the package from the vapors. Some colors of ink have more odor than others and the amount of ink coverage can affect the amount of odor. This odor, should it be present, is not considered a defect. It is similar to painting a room in your home. The paint will be dry, but there will be an odor that remains for several days. Should this odor be a concern, remove the products from the plastic packaging and let them air to eliminate the odor. Normally, once the products are placed for use, any odor that remains will quickly dissipate.

Ink Adhesion: Products are sold as disposable and for one time use only. Some items are stamped as residential top rack dishwasher safe. However, due to environmental variables beyond American Accents' control, the imprint is not guaranteed to stay on.

Ink Changes: American Tradition ink color changes are available in increments of 50 pieces, cost of $15 (V) per change. American Hi-Speed ink color changes are available in increments of 15,000 pieces, cost of $65 (V) per change.

Second Side Imprint on Coasters: The imprint orientation is not guaranteed to match the orientation on the first side when printing on both sides of coasters.

Printing of Beverage Wraps & Sleeves: Artwork used to print wraps is created flat. Once the wrap is placed on a cup, the image will take on the taper of the cup. This is not considered a defect.

Copy Changes: Copy changes are not available.

Combined Quantity: Combined quantity pricing is not available.

Over / Under Runs: We make every effort to ship exact quantities ordered. However, over / under runs can be +/- 10%.

Premium Backgrounds: Choose from any of our images and apply them to digitally printed items to create a perceived higher value at no additional cost. The backgrounds in the catalog and website are a representation of our images and may vary from the final printed product. Background image color may vary from re-order to re-order or within an order if multiple presses are used. This is not considered a defect.

Stock & Custom Shapes: Art templates are available on American Accents website. These templates illustrate correct bleed and margin size. Majority of shapes require 1/8" bleed past the cut line. Factory recommends a 3/16" copy margin inside of the cut line. Printed borders are highly discouraged, due to variation of the actual cut line. Second sided imprints will show this variation to a greater extent. Customer submitted custom shaped items will need to be evaluated by our art department and may require modification in order to cut. These issues are not considered a defect.

Standard Ink Colors: If a PMS # is not available, you may choose from our standard ink colors. We offer free PMS matching, so feel free to supply a Pantone® color if available. 2X and 4 digit metallic PMS #'s are not available. 800 series colors are limited to the PMS #'s shown.* Represents the default color when more than one choice is available.

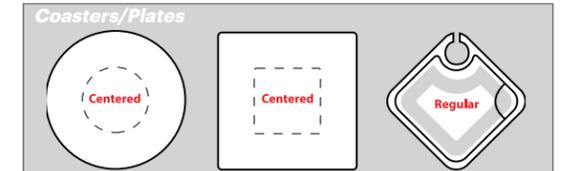

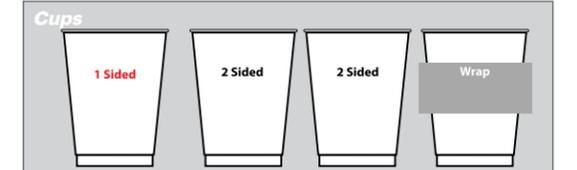

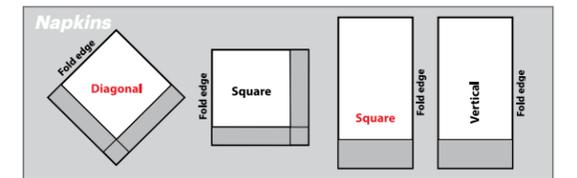

Layout: Unless otherwise specified, we will default to our standard placement (marked in red). Shadow on the napkins illustrates the ruffled edge. Cups are printed one side as a standard, however there is not an extra cost to print as 2 sided or a wrap, but must be specified.

Disclaimers

Pricing: Every effort is made to verify accuracy of the pricing in this catalog and maintain pricing. However, American Accents reserves the right to change prices without notice.

3rd Party Pricing & Specifications: American Accents will not be held responsible for erroneous pricing, product description or specifications found on 3rd party publications, websites, and search engines (such as ESP, SAGE, etc) Please verify the above mentioned information on the American Accents website or with Customer Service.

Product Information: Every effort is made to verify accuracy of the product information in this catalog. Due to printing and computer monitor limitations, product colors can vary. If color is important, please request random samples or order a product proof. American Accents cannot be held liable for erroneous information or variations in color.

Product Color Variation: White items will vary in "brightness" from lot to lot. Colored napkin paper is dyed to achieve its respective color, therefore each lot could appear as a slightly different shade. Napkin color could "bleed" when wet. The shade of plastic products could also vary from lot to lot. This variation in color is not considered to be a defect.

Product Count: Several times throughout the printing and packaging process, the product count is verified. When questions arise, the actual shipping weight receipt, which is automatically generated from the shipping scale, will be used to verify product count.

Logo Placement Variation: The logo will be printed based on the placement shown on the proof. Slight variation of this placement can occur when printing. This is not considered a defect.

Scuffs and Scratches: It is the nature of our materials to scuff and scratch during stacking and shipping. Clear and dark colored material & imprints show this the most. This is not considered a defect.

Product Substitutions: American Accents reserves the right to substitute our products with one of a similar design and function. Notice may or may not be given at our discretion.

Order Change: Any change to a processed order must be in writing and is subject to a $10 (Z) charge, in addition to any labor and material costs that have accrued.

Order Cancellation: Any cancellation to a processed order must be in writing and is subject to a $30 (Z) charge, in addition to any labor and material costs that have accrued.

Returns: In the event that a return is requested, it must be pre-approved by American Accents. Under no circumstance will returns be accepted after 30 days from date of delivery. Orders refused by the customer through no fault of American Accents or unauthorized returned merchandise will be reshipped direct to the distributor, with re-forwarding charges being the distributor's responsibility.

Unimprinted Items: To order unimprinted items, the cost is based on American Traditions pricing, less a 10% discount. Return of unimprinted items will only be accepted if packages are unopened and will be subject to a 25% restocking fee. All freight is the responsibility of the customer. Packaging for unimprinted items may vary from standard packaging.

Order Acknowledgments: An order acknowledgment is sent for all orders within 24 hours of the order being entered. It is the distributor's responsibility to check for discrepancies, as the order will be proofed and produced accordingly. The acknowledgment also has disclaimers for all items being ordered. After proof approval is received, you will receive another acknowledgment showing the ship date and method. Again, please verify this information along with the ship to address for accuracy.

Compliance Policy: The distributor or end user must make their own determination that their use of product(s) is safe, lawful, and technically suitable for the intended applications.

QR Codes: American Accents recommends a product proof for testing functionality of QR codes before placing an order. Minimum size should be 1 inch or larger. Taper of cups can and will affect readability. QR codes work best with dark ink on light items. Quality of smart phone and choice of QR reader apps affect the scanability.

Random Samples: We provide random samples for your convenience to show print and item quality. Samples are free of charge, however shipping is the responsibility of the distributor. Due to samples being random in nature, specific color on specific items and specific shape or premium background will not be possible. If you need to see a specific color on a specific item, please refer to pricing for product proofs.

Grip-It™ Material: Full bleed imprint is available on Grip-It™ material but it is not recommended for longevity due to the stresses that the product will endure while being used. Recommended cleaning is wiping with a warm damp cloth only.

Boxes, Gift Boxes, Dispenser Boxes, Table Tents, Table Luminaries: Are printed with digital UV inks and the following characteristics are not considered a defect: At folds, creases, and cut lines the ink may exhibit cracking or flaking. If you use sealing tape or labels, we recommend acrylic based adhesive as opposed to rubber based for best available adhesion or designing artwork so that desired label or tape placement is ink free.

Mailing Boxes: Sizes listed refer to boxes' inside dimensions which are represented as L" x W" x D". Inside dimensions can vary slightly depending on assembly quality. Printed registration will vary due to several factors including: artwork layout, print & cut placement relative to the corrugated material, and assembly quality. If printing full-bleed, interior/exterior prints may be visible on the outside/inside. It is strongly recommended that you plan for these possibilities when selecting sizes and setting up artwork.

Please note that as the amount of UV ink coverage increases, so does the likelihood of linear banding and cracking along folds & creases. It is the factory's recommendation that you limit the amount of ink coverage to achieve the best results.

All mailing boxes ship flat and unassembled from our warehouse.

It is understood that by submitting an order to the factory, the distributor agrees to all of the factory's terms and conditions, regardless of what is on the distributor's purchase order.

AMERICAN ACCENTS only sells to authorized promotional products distributors.
